CHAPTER X.

THE next two months were busy ones for Brewster. Miss Drew saw him quite as often as before the important interview, but he was always a puzzle to her. "His attitude is changed somehow," she thought to herself. And then she remembered that "a man who wins a girl after an ardent suit is often like one who runs after a street-car and then sits down to read his paper."

In truth, after the first few days Monty seemed to have forgotten his competitors and was resting in the consciousness of his assured position. Each day he sent her flowers and considered that he had more than done his duty. He used no small part of his income on the flowers, but in this case his mission was almost forgotten in his love for Barbara.

Monty's attitude was not due to any waning of his affection, but to the very unromantic business in which he was engaged. It seemed to him that, plan as he might, he could not devise fresh ways and means to earn $10,000 a day. He was still comfortably ahead in the race, but a famine in opportunity was not far remote. Ten big dinner parties and a string of elaborate after the play suppers maintained a fair but insufficient average, and he could see that the time was ripe for radical measures. He could not go on forever with his dinners. People were already beginning to refer to the fact that he was warning his toes on the social register, and he had no desire to become the laughingstock of the town. The few slighting, sarcastic remarks about his business ability, chiefly by women and therefore reflected from the men, hurt him. Miss Drew's apparently harmless taunt and Mrs. Dan's open criticism told plainly enough how the wind was blowing, but it was Peggy's gentle questions that cut the deepest. There was such honest concern in her voice that he could see how his prodigality was troubling her and Mrs. Gray. In their eyes more than in the others he felt ashamed and humiliated. Finally, goaded by the remark of a bank director which he overheard, "Edwin P. Brewster is turning handsprings in his grave over the way he is going it," Monty resolved to redeem himself in the eyes of his critics. He would show them that his brain was not wholly given over to frivolity.

With this project in mind he decided to cause a little excitement in Wall street. For some days he stealthily watched the stock market and piled his friends with questions about values. Constant reading and observation finally convinced him that Lumber and Fuel Common was the one stock in which he could safely plunge. Casting aside all apprehension, so far as Sprengren Jones was concerned, he prepared for what was to be his one and only venture on the Stock Exchange before the 23d of the following September. With all the cunning and craftiness of a general he laid his plans for the attack. Gardner's face was the picture of despair when Brewster asked him to buy heavily in Lumber and Fuel.

"Good heavens, Monty!" cried the broker. "You're joking. Lumber is away up now. It can't possibly go a fraction of a point higher. Take my advice and don't touch it. It opened today at 113½ and closed at 109. Why, man, you're crazy to think about it for an instant!"

"I know my business, Gardner," said Brewster quietly, and his conscience smote him when he saw the flush of mortification creep into the face of his friend. The rebuke had not hurt Gardner to the quick.

"But, Monty, I know what I'm talking about. At least let me tell you something about this stock," pleaded Elton loyally despite the wound.

"Gardner, I've gone into this thing carefully, and if ever a man felt sure about anything I do about this," said Monty decidedly, but affectionately.

"Take my word for it, Lumber can't go any higher. Think of the situation. The lumbermen in the north and west are overstocked, and there is a strike ready to go into effect. When that comes, the stock will go for a song. The slump is liable to begin any day."

"My mind is made up," said the other firmly, and Gardner was in despair. "Will you or will you not execute an order for me at the opening tomorrow? I'll start with 10,000 shares. What will it cost me to margin it for ten points?"

"At least a hundred thousand, exclusive of commission, which would be twelve and a half a hundred shares." Despite the most strenuous opposition from Gardner, Brewster adhered to his design, and the broker executed the order the next morning. He knew that Brewster had but one chance to win, and that was to buy the stock in a lump instead of distributing it among several brokers and throughout the session. This was a point that Monty had overlooked.

There had been little to excite the Stock Exchange for some weeks; nothing was active, and the slightest flurry was hailed as an event. Every one knew that the calm would be disturbed at some near day, but nobody looked for a sensation in Lumber and Fuel. It was a foregone conclusion that a slump was coming, and there was scarcely any trading in the stock. When Elton Gardner, acting for Montgomery Brewster, took 10,000 shares at 108½, there was a mighty gasp on the exchange, then a rubbing of eyes, then commotion. Astonishment was followed by nervousness, and then came the struggle.

Brewster, confident that the stock could go no higher and that sooner or later it must drop, calmly ordered his horse for a ride in the snow covered park. Even though he knew the venture was to be a failure in the ordinary sense, he found joy in the knowledge that he was doing something. He might be a fool; he was at least no longer inactive. The feel of the air was good to him. He was exhilarated by the glitter of the snow, the answering excitement of his horse, the gayety and sparkle of life about him.

Somewhere far back in his inner self there seemed to be the sound of cheering and the clapping of hands. Shortly before noon he reached his club, where he was to lunch with Colonel Drew. In the reading room he observed that men were looking at him in a manner less casual than was customary. Some of them went so far as to smile encouragingly, and others waved their hands in the most cordial fashion. Three or four very young members looked upon him with admiration and envy, and even the porters seemed more obsequious. There was something strangely oppressive in all this show of deference.

Colonel Drew's dignity relaxed amazingly when he caught sight of the young man. He came forward to meet him, and his greeting almost carried Monty off his feet.

"How did you do it, my boy?" cried the colonel. "She's off a point or two now, I believe, but half an hour ago she was booming. Gad, I never heard of anything more spectacular!"

Monty's heart was in his mouth as he rushed over to the ticker. It did not take him long to grasp the immensity of the disaster. Gardner had bought in at 108½, and that very action seemed to put new life into the stock. Just as it was on the point of breaking for lack of support alone came this sensational order for 10,000 shares, and there could be but one result. At one time in the morning Lumber and Fuel, traded in by excited holders, touched 113½ and seemed in a fair way to hold firm around that figure.

Other men came up and listened eagerly. Brewster realized that his dash in Lumber and Fuel had been a master stroke of cleverness when considered from the point of view of these men, but a catastrophe from his own.

"I hope you sold it when it was at the top," said the colonel anxiously. "I instructed Gardner to sell only when I gave the word," said Monty lamely. Several of the men looked at him in surprise and disgust.

"Well, if I were you I'd tell him to sell," remarked the colonel coldly.

"The effect of your plunge has worn off, Brewster, and the other side will drive the prices down. They won't be caught napping again either," said one of the bystanders earnestly.

"Do you think so?" And there was a note of relief in Monty's voice.

From all sides came the advice to sell at once, but Brewster was not to be pushed. He calmly lighted a cigarette and with an assured air of wisdom told them to wait a little while and see.

"She's already falling off," said some one at the ticker.

When Brewster's bewildered eyes raced over the figures the stock was quoted at 112. His sigh of relief was heard, but misunderstood. He might be saved after all. The stock had started to go down, and there seemed no reason why it should stop. As he intended to purchase no more, it was fair to assume that the backbone was at the breaking point. The crash was bound to come. He could hardly restrain a cry of joy. Even while he stood at the ticker the little instrument began to tell of a further decline. As the price went down his hopes went up.

The bystanders were beginning to be disgusted. "It was only a fluke after all," they said to each other. Colonel Drew was appealed to by Brewster to save himself, and he was on the point of remonstrance when the message came that the threatened strike was off and that the men were willing to arbitrate. Almost before one could draw breath this startling news began to make itself felt. The certainty of a great strike was one of the things that had made Brewster sure that the price could not hold. With this danger removed there was nothing to jeopardize the earning power of the stock. The next quotation was a point higher.

"You sly dog!" said the colonel, digging Monty in the side. "I had confidence in you all the time."

In ten minutes' time Lumber and Fuel was again up to 113 and soaring. Brewster, panic stricken, rushed to the telephone and called up Gardner.

The broker, hoarse with excitement, was delighted when he recognized Brewster's voice.

"You're a wonder, Monty! I'll see you after the close. How did you do it?" shouted Gardner.

"What's the price now?" asked Brewster.

"One thirteen and three-fourths and going up all the time! Hooryay!"

"Do you think she'll go down again?" demanded Brewster.

"Not if I can help it."

"Very well, then, go and sell out!" roared Brewster.

"But she's going up like—"

"Sell, hang you! Didn't you hear?"

Gardner, dazed and weak, began selling and finally liquidated the full line at prices ranging from 114 to 112½. But Montgomery Brewster had cleared $58,550, and all because it was he and not the market that got excited.

PEARY STARTS

Determined Quest of the North Pole
Taken Up Again.

New York, July 17.—Commander Robert E. Peary Sunday started on his long journey in quest of the North Pole. His ship, the Roosevelt, which had been lying in the North river since Saturday night, weighed anchor and got under way at 3:10 yesterday afternoon.

On board the vessel, besides the explorer's party were a number of guests and newspaper men who accompanied the ship as far as Sandy Hook, where they were taken off by a navy-yard tug sent out by Admiral Coghlan. A launch bearing a party of excursionists attempted to run close alongside of the Roosevelt after she was under way and nearly collided with her. The Roosevelt was saluted by all manner of steam and sailing craft on her way to sea.

Wasn't Room for All.

St. Louis, July 17.—A crowd of over 2,000 persons fought with the police Sunday in a wild scramble to gain admittance to the dedication services of the new synagogue of the congregation Shalom Shalom. A number were clubbed but none seriously hurt, hats were crushed, women's dresses torn and several women fainted. After the parade from the old synagogue to the new, the edifice was quickly filled to its greatest capacity, and of necessity the doors were closed upon a horde that filled Wash street for a block. The outsiders immediately began trying to force the doors open. Finally the police got the upper hand and the street was partially cleared and order restored. The services lasted four hours.

Wreckers Missed Their Prey.

New Orleans, July 17.—A Southern Pacific freight train was wrecked near Lafayette, La., and Engineer Whalen killed and Fireman Coine badly hurt. The wreck was caused by an open switch, and all signs point to a deliberate attempt to wreck a passenger train, for a switch-light was moved and all preparations made to cause an accident. The passenger passed through an hour before, and the freight was running on the passenger train's time.

Editorial Warfare.

St. Petersburg, July 17.—Prince Oukhtomsky, editor of the St. Petersburg Viedomosti, has brought suit against the Novoe Vremya and M. Skalkovsky for slander.

Story of the Sinking of the Takasago Will Afford

"Gallant Sailors," Brave Crew
Went Down.

Tokio, July 17.—The story of the loss of the Japanese cruiser Takasago in December last, only officially admitted since the destruction of Rojstvensky's fleet and now given publication, is a military classic. After the Takasago struck a mine and began to sink the crew assembled in perfect order on the upper deck, there to await the battle with a stormy sea and death. Captain Ishibashi ordered every man to use a life-belt, and directed that no one jump overboard until the ship actually sank. The crew then joined in singing the national anthem, cheering the emperor, and lastly they sang "Gallant Sailors," their five hundred voices ringing out above the storm. After that, as a relaxation, the men were allowed to smoke, and thus they went calmly to their deaths. Of five hundred men who went down with the Takasago only 135 were rescued.

WARNING TO AUTOCRACY

Social Revolutionists Take Assassination as Text.

Moscow, July 17.—The fighting organization of the social revolutionists has issued a proclamation announcing that the death sentence pronounced against Major General Count Shuvaloff, chief of police here, who was assassinated July 11, was executed by one of its members. "On account of the black and cruel activity of this satrap at Odessa (where Count Shuvaloff was formerly prefect), and his subsequent return to the active service of reaction at the call of Trotsky, the Pan-Russian dictator, to stamp out the revolution in Moscow."

The proclamation continues: "Let this execution serve as a joyful signal to the Russian millions in revolt and as the death knell of the dying autocracy. Let it remind all dogs of the autocracy of national justice."

THE RAINY SEASON

Prevents Large Movements in the Manchurian Campaign.

Tokio, July 17.—Reliable information has been received here that the Russian forces in northern Korea have gradually been driven northward since last month and now hold only two positions south of the Tumen river.

The latest information from the front, however, reports the advance south of a large force from Vladivostok, but it is believed the Russians will halt at Nokietsk, north of the Tumen and concentrate their forces to make a resolute stand there against the Japanese advance. The rainy season has set in in Manchuria and prevents movements on a large scale.

The Situation at the Front.

Gunshu Pass, Manchuria, July 17.—Reports that the Russian army is in a precarious situation appear to be without foundation. Investigations made by correspondents show that neither flank has been turned and that in fact the Russian wings are more advanced than the center. The Japanese center is strongly fortified. Many siege guns have been emplaced along the Changtufu-Nanchenze line, and there is a triple ring of forts commanding the Mandarin road.

Russians Driven Out.

Tokio, July 17.—It is officially announced that the Russian center holding Darline and vicinity was attacked July 11 and offered stubborn resistance. The attack was renewed at dawn of July 12, when the Japanese dislodged the Russians, driving them in the direction of Mauka. This victory insures complete occupation of south Sakhalin by the Japanese.

Will Enforce Order.

Warsaw, July 17.—General Maximovich, the governor general, has issued an order forbidding illegal assemblies, processions and gatherings in the streets throughout Poland. The government now feels strong enough to enforce the fullest order and to take stern measures against all manifestations.

Powers Asked to Intervene.

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 17.—The Bulgarian government has sent a circular note to the representatives of the powers in which the powers are asked to intervene for the protection of the Bulgarian population in the vilayet of Adrianople, European Turkey, against systematic Turkish persecution which forces the Bulgarians to abandon their homes to seek refuge in the forests and to become active rebels. The note suggests that the vilayet be subjected to European control.

There will be several new faces on the Republican state committee next year. George A. Cunningham of Evansville will probably retire as First district chairman. John Billheimer of Washington, who is a candidate for auditor of state, will not be a candidate for Second district chairman. John C. Zulauf of Jeffersonville, chairman of the Third, and W. E. Springer of Elizabethtown, chairman of the Fourth district, are expected to be candidates. Julian D. Hogate of Danville, may retire as chairman of the Fifth. Colonel Ed Thayer of Greenfield, who is chairman of the Sixth, has also privately expressed a desire to retire, but his political associates may prevail on him to run again. Floyd A. Woods of this city will not be a candidate for Seventh district chairman. George Lilly of Anderson will be a candidate for reelection as Eighth district chairman, but Fred A. Sims, secretary of the state committee, will retire as Ninth district chairman to run for secretary of state. A. K. Sills of Monticello, Tenth district chairman, is expected to be a candidate for reelection. Elam Neal wants to be re-elected as chairman of the Eleventh district, but the president's orders against federal officeholders taking an active hand in politics may keep him out of the race. Elmer Leonard of the Twelfth will retire, but John Moorman of the Thirteenth will ask for another term.

The big guns of the Republican party in Indiana are taking to the woods for a vacation. Vice President Fairbanks has been visiting Indianapolis friends at Lake Maxinkuckee and has received a rousing reception from the cadets at Culver. Senator Beveridge is still in the Wisconsin woods. He did not leave his address for publication, so his whereabouts are unknown to the politicians who are always wanting something. Senator Hemenway will leave Thursday for Mackinac Island to be gone several days. It is understood that H. C. Starr, chairman of the executive committee of the state committee will accompany him. "Big Chief" Joe Kealing is attending the Lewis and Clarke exposition at Portland and will be away for some time. Governor Hanly is unable to take a vacation because of the meeting of the state board of tax commissioners, which will continue until the first of September. Aside from the tax board sessions, however, the usual summer quiet prevails at the state capitol building.

James Bingham of Muncie is working hard to land the Republican nomination for attorney general next year. He became a candidate three years ago, entering the race as an unknown, but finishing so strong that he surprised the party leaders, who had not considered him very seriously. After Charles W. Miller, the present attorney general, had won, Bingham made such a rousing speech to the convention that he had the delegates shouting as enthusiastically for him as they were for the nominee. Hundreds of them remembered the occasion, and Bingham is having smooth sailing. No one is being talked of as an opponent to Bingham except Griffith Dean of Marion, who, it is said, may make another attempt to land the nomination.

Didn't Miss Companion.

Logansport, Ind., July 17.—While swimming in the Wabash river mill race Earl Reynolds, aged seventeen years, was drowned. Twenty other men and boys were in the race at the time. They swam over Reynolds's body for half an hour, unconscious of his fate, until, while dressing, they found one extra suit of clothes. The body was recovered.

Fatal Family Feud.

St. Louis, July 17.—In the presence of her mother, Bessie Barnes, aged fifteen years, was shot dead on the street in front of her home at 2702 Lucas avenue, Sunday. Mrs. Mary Carder, aged thirty years, is under arrest charged with the shooting, which is said to have been the culmination of ill-feeling between the two families.

Chicago, July 17.—The express drivers formerly employed by the seven railway express companies will remain on strike, for the present at least. This was decided upon Sunday by the members of the Express Drivers' union, when a referendum vote was taken on the proposition of calling off the strike.

A Soldier Murdered.

Baltimore, July 17.—Private Patrick Cummings of Company E, United States engineer corps, was murdered Sunday by Hayes Donaldson of this city at a landing place on Curtis creek near this city. The murderer escaped.

"I was swollen so I could hardly walk when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription.' I also had uterine trouble and could neither eat nor sleep only as I took morphine. Tried four different doctors and they all failed to do me any good, so one of my friends recommended your 'Favorite Prescription' to me and I took only three bottles and am now well and hearty. MEETINGS CLOSED. MELEE AT COLUMBUS

Rel Services at City Park Closed Sunday Evening.

Days of gospel meeting, which were held in the City Park came to a close Sunday night. The meetings have been held under the auspices of the Jackson County Association and this annual meeting was gratifying to all. Texas cowboy evangelists, C. E. Roberts and Allie Roberts, and other preachers have been working here during the afternoon and evening sessions. There have been in progress since Sunday, was crowned a great success. At morning opportunity was given to the sermon but many were in the afternoon the preaching an account of their happy conversion. The subject "Christianity" was analyzed in the evening services which continued until about eleven o'clock. The members of the association are elated over the joyous way in which many have taken part in the services and given their money to carrying on their work.

The evangelists left at 8:06 this morning for Connorsville thence they will go to Rhode Island and Michigan and then on the third of August they will set sail from New York on a year's evangelistic tour around the world.

Tent Ropes Cut.

At the tent meeting of the Holiness church people at the city park Sunday evening a few young men conceived the idea of causing trouble at the religious gathering by making the rounds of the large tent and cutting sixteen out of the twenty two supporting ropes. The slightest jar would have leveled the tent to the ground had not the work of the intruders been discovered in time to avert such a disaster as would inevitably have fallen the worthy assemblage. The Texas cowboy preachers were given an opportunity to make a poor opinion of our city but being, as they were, liberal minded, they did not estimate the whole by the work of a few individuals.

Mayor's Court.

In the trial of the state of Indiana vs. Harry Hudson held before Mayor Graessle this morning the latter was found guilty of assault and battery on George Earnest and fined $1 and costs, amounting to $11.80. The fines were stayed. The trial was held as the result of trouble on Saturday night originating over a grocery bill.

Dr. And Mrs. S. E. Grace Attacked On Washington Street.

Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Grace who spent some time in our city recently, were attacked, while on the streets of Columbus at 11:30 Saturday night. They were walking along the street in front of Dr. O. H. Mennel's Drug Store when Frank La Bar and "Red Smith" two Columbus men of questionable character, began whistling at Mrs. Grace and Dr. Grace asked for an explanation, whereupon he was set upon and made the subject of very rough treatment. His wife tried to assist him but was grabbed by the throat by La Bar who jerked her into the street and dealt her some hard blows. Smith kept Dr. Grace from lending her any assistance, by attempting to land a vicious blow, but was kept at a safe distance by the doctor. Dr. Mennel heard Mrs. Grace's screams and ran to assist her. When he stopped to inquire what was the trouble was hit in the eye by La Bar and thrown to the ground. When he regained his feet he bluffed La Bar by attempting to draw a revolver. Mrs. Grace meanwhile escaped to the drug store. An officer was now in sight and the guilty parties started out on a run. La Bar stopped when he heard the pistol shots of the officer, but Smith escaped. La Bar was placed in jail.

Grosser Story of Fate of Wrecked Submarine's Crew.

Bizerta, Tunis, July 17.—The mournful task of removing the bodies of the crew of the submarine boat Farfadet, which sank at the entrance of the port of Sidi Abdallah July 6, and which was towed into drydock Saturday after incessant efforts to raise her, is proceeding slowly. Owing to the displacement of the machinery through the action of the water, some of the bodies became firmly fixed beneath the engines and other apparatus, and the men engaged in the work were compelled to attach ropes to the bodies in order to disengage them.

It is now apparent that four of the men who occupied the forward compartment were drowned immediately the accident occurred. Lieutenant Robin was found lying on his back with his arms extended. Near by was the quartermaster, whose jersey had caught in a hook close to the faulty hatch which caused the catastrophe, evidently while trying to escape. Eight men in the after compartment were those who responded to the divers's rappings during the thirty-two hours after the sinking of the submarine. From the condition of the interior of the vessel it was seen that they struggled hard against their fate and endeavored to stop the leaking hatch with their jerseys. The water, however, gained while the air supply diminished. Only four bodies have as yet been recovered, and these are almost unrecognizable.

Owing to the delay in removing the bodies the authorities have put off the funeral ceremony until Wednesday next. The Mediterranean squadron will participate in the funeral and the bodies will be brought to France for interment.

The American Invasion.

St. Petersburg, July 17.—The Bourse Gazette prints a long article attacking the Northeastern Siberian company of St. Petersburg, which is presided over by M. Contonilovsky, having Admiral Abashev of Yala fame among the stockholders, but which the paper says is really managed by John Rosin, an American, for the benefit of Americans. The Bourse Gazette asserts that the company has taken over the possession of the spacious Chukotsky peninsula, where mining privileges are denied to Russians. It characterizes the whole affair as "a warning against the American invasion of Russian territory, which is connived at by the Yala scoundrels."

Shot by Drunken Man.

Lafayette Ind., July 17.—Crazed with drink, Alex Kennedy, an old soldier, entered the drug store of Dr. Philip T. Tresca, a pioneer druggist, and shot the doctor, inflicting what is thought to be a mortal wound. Kennedy, it is said, has been on a spree for three days, and when he entered the drug store he was cursing. The druggist ordered the man from the store. With an oath Kennedy told Mr. Tresca to throw up his hands and drawing a revolver, fired, the bullet striking the druggist in the side. Kennedy left the store and went down the street. He was later arrested.

Clark's Condition Grave.

New York, July 17.—United States Senator William A. Clark of Montana continues to rally satisfactorily from the operation which he underwent Saturday for the removal of an abscess of the brain. The physicians in attendance say that the senator's condition is such as was to be expected following a delicate and grave operation. While the information made public is all in favor of the patient, the gravity of the senator's condition is not withheld from the family. They are aware that it will be at least four days before his ultimate safety can be assured.

Victim of His Own Gun.

Weston, Mass., July 17.—By the discharge of a shotgun which he had loaded for the purpose of shooting stray cats, Thomas L. Hagar, a cousin of Major General Leonard Wood, was instantly killed last night.

Regimental Reunions and Forty-Second Anniversary Battle Chickamauga.

Chattanooga, September 17-21, 1905.

On September 18, 1905, will occur the forty-second anniversary of the Battle of Chickamauga. It is proposed to celebrate this memorable event with a reunion of the various regiments that participated in this memorable battle, and in addition to hold at the same time a grand reunion of all the regiments that participated in the various battles fought around Chattanooga. This reunion will be held at Chickamauga National Park, September 18, 19 and 20, and the present indications are that it will be the largest and most notable gathering ever held in the south. On the above dates, the remnants from the armies of twelve states, comprising the following: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Kentucky, will assemble, many for the first time since they marched from their blood-stained fields, forty-two years ago.

Grat and glorious will be the meeting and all who attend will have cause to rejoice. The lowest rate ever secured has been given the entire public for this occasion, one cent per mile, short line distance. Here is one of the great opportunities for the education of the youth. Don't fail to take your children and show them historic Chattanooga, with all its historical connections. It is the opportunity of a lifetime. Go and see the old war generals and other old soldiers point out the places of interest on the battlefield; let them show you and explain in person the markers erected on the battlefield showing the positions of the opposing armies at the time of battle. It will not be long until none will be left to do this noble work; take this opportunity and don't let it escape you, it is worth six months in the school room to any student.

It will be many years, if ever again, that such an opportunity will present itself. See that your tickets read via Louisville & Nashville R. R., the Battlefield Route, call on your nearest railroad agent for rates and on your master representative of the reunion or write nearest representative of the Louisville & Nashville R. R.

HEDGES REMOVED.

Deputy Fish Commissioners in This County.

Two deputy fish commissioners began Saturday tearing out the "hedge" in White river this side of Reddington. Before they were through the usefulness of this device was entirely destroyed and it is not likely that the men who have been fishing there in a manner contrary to law will take chances on restoring it. Several days ago one man was arrested at this same hedge and caused to pay a heavy fine.

When the deputies had destroyed this hedge they floated on down the river looking for law violations on the way. At Indian Mound they found another hedge and if we mistake not they are on the trail of the fellows who began operating there last summer and have since been taking fish from the river contrary to law.

These deputies will continue to patrol the river and wherever they find the fish law violated prosecution will follow. In their efforts to apprehend and punish violators of the laws of the state they have the support of all law abiding fishermen.
